What is Horticulture:

The word horticulture is derived from the Latin term that means gardening, the Latin word for garden is Hortus, and Cultura means cultivation.
Horticulture started with the domestication of plants, mostly for sustenance from fruits, vegetables and herbs, and was later developed to include more ornamental plants like flowers, shrubs and trees.

Over the years of research, Horticulture has developed so much, with so many different divisions, including but not limited to, Arboriculture, Floriculture, Landscaping and Gardening. The word horticulture has now become more associated as a formal way to describe the science of growing plants of all kinds. While gardening is a division of horticulture, a gardener is someone who cultivates and takes care of a garden/allotment, either as a living or as a hobby/pastime.

How to exhibit:

There are many publications available providing guidance for exhibiting through the relevant organisations such as RHS, NVS, NDS, NCS, RNRS, BFS, National Honey Show, NAFAS & WI.

Ensure you have read and comply with the rules, familiarise yourself with the classes you choose to enter. Ensure that your exhibits are all your own work or effort.

Join our Facebook group www.facebook.com/groups/EghamHGC for support, or contact the Home & Garden Competition manager by email hgcmarquee@eghamroyalshow.org.uk if you have any questions regarding exhibiting.

Horticulture, fruit, vegetables and flowers are judged on no blemishes, uniformity and quality using the relevant RHS, NVS, NDS, NCS, RNRS, BFS guidelines.

Handicraft exhibits should be finished and not a work in progress.

Culinary Art should be made so that it is as fresh as possible when displayed.
Jams and Preserves must be made within the specified timeframe as stated in the class description, and are judged to the WI Guidelines.

Floral Art arrangements should be made with fresh or dried natural plant material and are judged with reference to NAFAS guidelines.

Schedules:

Schedules are available on the Egham show website, and will be sent by email to all previous years exhibitor's. To request a printed Schedule please contact the Competition Manager by phone 07976 302007 or by email: hgcmarquee@eghamroyalshow.org.uk
